The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of the following reasons:

Inventions I-XIV are unrelated. Inventions are unrelated if it can be shown that they are not disclosed as capable of use together and they have different modes of operation, different functions, or different effects (MPEP § 806.04, MPEP § 808.01). In the instant case the different inventions are drawn to different methods or products which vary in modes of operation, functions and effects. For example, the grouped inventions are drawn to various imaging methods, such as, detecting cancer or pulmonary embolism or the cranium, all of which have different modes of operation, as they detect different tissues and/or different physiological states or conditions. Other methods are drawn to monitoring drug therapy, which requires a therapeutic method to have been performed, while other methods are form facilitating bubble dissipation or sizing the length of capillaries. Further, the product claims are drawn to different containers, syringes, injector systems, etc., which have different modes of operation and functions as they contain various different components, catheters, syringes, capillary stems, etc.

Inventions I-VII, X and XI and VII, IX, XII-XIV are related as product and process of use. The inventions can be shown to be distinct if either or both of the following can be shown: (1) the process for using the product as claimed can be practiced with another materially different product or (2) the product as claimed can be used in a materially different process of using that product (MPEP § 806.05(h)). In the instant case the methods of imaging, detecting cancerous tissues, enhancing MRI, evaluating drug delivery may be performed with materially different products, radioactive imaging agents, ultrasound contrast agents, etc.

Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art because of their recognized divergent subject matter, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and the search required for one group is not required for another group, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include an election of the invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143).

CFR 1.17(i).

Applicant is reminded that upon the cancellation of claims to a non-elected invention, the inventorship must be amended in compliance with 37 CFR 1.48(b) if one or more of the currently named inventors is no longer an inventor of at least one claim remaining in the application. Any amendment of inventorship must be accompanied by a request under 37 CFR 1.48(b) and by the fee required under 37
